False Pretenses

There could be no danger that the people of Oregon, or of any State, would refuse to support the Government in its contest with treason, if those who call themselves Democrats will frankly avow their real purposes If the people can be enabled to see through the flimsy veil by which the Democracy seeks to conceal its sympathy with the rebellion, there will be no hesitancy or question with regard to their action. Under the false pretense of a care for constitutional rights—of a fear lest the Administration will in some way do violence to the nation's liberties, there is a loud and despairing call upon all who have ever been Democrats to unite and act vigorously in opposition to the Government All such pretences are hollow and false there is no cause for any such accusations against the Administration, and if there were, the demagogues who make them are the last persons who ought to ask or expect to be trusted They brought all these troubles and perils upon the land. They sold themselves and the best interests of the nation for the privilege of being the slaves and office-bearers of the South, in its crusade against the life of the Republic, and to day they have no higher purpose—no loftier ambition than to humble the North and the whole country at the feet of the South, so that they may again get the reward of their baseness They care nothing about the peace and prosperity of the nation, nor have they any respect for Democracy farther than they hope by using the name as a blind, to hoodwink and deceive the honest masses. Let them come out boldly and profess without disguise just what they wish and intend to do, and nine tenths of those who have voted with them would turn away from them in indignation and contempt. If there were none of these false pretences, the chaff of treason would very easily be separated from the sound wheat of patriotism.

The Largest Lie out —The Democrat says the Administration "has degraded our standing as a nation of white men by using a servile race in the work of subjugating a people who were willing to compromise a difficulty in a manner that would have been honorable to all alike."

Passing by the nonsense about the servile race, which is only put in to bumbug some intense negro worshiper, we ask the Democrat to tell us when the rebels were willing to compromise, as it suggests It knows better than to make any such assertion. It knows that every leading traitor utterly scorns all idea of compromise, and that Senators from the South refused even to vote upon the Crittenden compromise, declaring that their sole object and purpose were separation and secession Why will you tell such enormous falsehoods, Mr Democrat? Do you suppose the people are fools, or so ignorant that they will believe so gross a libel upon the Government and the people of the North?

Presto, Change!—The Democrats, before six months, will be among the loudest war men in the country Now that the war policy has been successful, they will patronize it largely —Sacramento Bee

Of course they will for the policy of such men is only to be popular Within a year they will be noisier friends of abolition than even Wendell Phillips or Garrison, and will boldly demand all the offices in the nation, because of their fidelity to its interests and to anti-slavery! The man was not far out of the way, who opposed negro suffrage because if allowed every Democrat who wanted office would swear that he had negro blood in his veins, so that he might secure negro votes With such men principles are nothing—the name and success are omnipotent

Food —A London professor lectured recently on adulterations of food He handed around coffee, which was pronounced excellent, then told the audience that they had been regaled with a mixture of bullock's blood, chicory, sheep's liver dried, and old coffee grounds He gave them capital porter too made of spirits of wine, gum arabic and burnt sugar

Frontier Life—An Early Start

In the winter of 1837-8 I was living with my family at a point on the west shore of Lake Michigan in Wisconsin, called Port Washington, it was one of those paper cities, started by the visionary city lot speculators of 1836, in which I had been induced to buy an "undivided interest" at a very low figure, in consideration of my building and settling there with my family Several other families had settled there on the same terms, in the past spring, but had made the discovery before the summer closed that they could not make a living in a "city" surrounded by a dense wilderness, except on the lake side, and not a white inhabitant within twenty five miles, and all had departed before the winter set in, leaving myself and family entirely alone in the place

Well, after the ice had closed the navigation of the lake, we did a thriving business at tavern keeping No opposition not a house on the road (Indian trail rather) for twenty five miles in either direction, so we put out our sign City Hotel as large as life (house 18 by 24, kitchen, dining room and parlor all in one, with a spare bed room up stairs for guests,) and we were favored with one or two travelers almost every night—poor sailors mostly, without money to pay their bills, whose vessels had been frozen in at Green Bay, or some other of the northern ports, and they were making their way on foot, which was the only practical mode of locomotion through that region at that time to Milwaukee, then a thriving little village of two or three hundred inhabitants, to spend the winter They used to annoy us a great deal, my wife especially who was cook and steward, by insisting on an early breakfast in order to get an early start, for fear they would not be able to reach Milwaukee before dark and when it is remembered that the distance was twenty-five miles, through an uninhabited wilderness, we must admit that they were wise in desiring to start early

Late one evening in the latter part of December, when the snow was about two feet deep, and only just sufficient travel to keep the trail open, my wife was congratulating herself that for once she would not have to hurry up in the morning to get an early breakfast, as we were without a traveler that evening She had hardly finished speaking when the door opened and a traveler entered, who happened to be an old acquaintance a Capt Brooks, with whom we had traveled on the lakes and a jolly good fellow He wanted supper and a bed and wanted to have breakfast at five o'clock in the morning! he must have an "early start" as the snow was deep, and he was but an indifferent walker I saw my wife scowl a little at this [illegible] for an early breakfast, it had destroyed [illegible] vision for a long nap in the morning [illegible] ever, she soon got supper ready to which [illegible] Captain did ample justice and directly retired to bed but before going, charged my wife to be sure and have his breakfast ready by five o'clock She demurred a little, saying that she frequently got early breakfasts for travelers, and then they would not leave for an hour or two afterwards, waiting for daylight, putting her to unnecessary inconvenience He regretted the necessity for disturbing her at such an early hour, but pledged himself to depart as soon as he could get some breakfast, no matter how early "Very well Captain, rely on getting an early start," was her answer

It now had got to be ten o'clock, and I told my wife she had better get to bed as soon as possible, as she would have to rise very early Her reply was that she was not going to bed until she saw the Captain off, that she intended sitting up until twelve o'clock, have breakfast ready, put the hands of the clock forward, call the Captain, and give him a start that he would not forget in a hurry I did not oppose the plan, and it would have been of very little use if I had for my little wife was in the habit of having her own way Accordingly, exactly at midnight the breakfast was on the table, the hands of the clock made made to indicate five o'clock, and the Captain called. He remarked that the night appeared very short but supposed it was because he was very tired and had slept very sound. He made a very hearty breakfast, considering it was only about two hours since he had disposed of a hearty supper, apologized to Mrs G... for the trouble he had given her, bid us a good morning and left. I piloted him into the trail leading to Milwaukee, assured him that he could not get lost as there was no other path to lead him astray, wished him a pleasant journey, returned to the house, went to bed, and my wife took her own time for getting up in the morning

Nothing more was heard of the Captain until the summer of 1861. We were keeping tavern in Sacramento, a rough looking miner called, gave me the charge of a well filled purse for safe keeping, and as I was lighting him to bed, laughingly inquired if my wife was still in the habit of giving travelers an early start G

Ex-President Buchanan —The Lebanon, (Pa,) Courier says

Mr Buchanan receives very little respect from the American people most of whom seem to take great satisfaction in putting some insult upon him On the $5 bills notes of the Pottstown Bank is a likeness of the Ex President, but you scarcely see one on which the likeness is not made to represent something or to express an [illegible] complimentary to the original We saw one the other day to which horns had been added and other alterations made to give it the appearance of Old Nick and we must say that the likeness is capable of being made to represent to perfection our educated idea of the individual with the cloven foot

Poor old reprobate! How utterly despised he is His official life has given comparative reputation to the base career of John Tyler because more full of treason, and now even his picture is regarded as the best likeness of Satan which the human family furnishes Well, he deserves it all and we shall not mourn his afflictions!

A Christian's Belief —The correspondent of the New York Journal gives the following account of a Methodist Thanksgiving sermon in Georgetown, D C, by a Methodist clergyman named Phelps a Virginian by birth and all his life associated with Southern people and the great Southern institution

He said that thirty years ago the Legislature of Virginia wanted only one vote to secure a law abolishing slavery in the State, he condemned her recusancy [illegible] to the black race and for their [illegible] them in their married relation [illegible] as his opinion that the State had [illegible] the rebellion than she had [illegible] by rearing and selling [illegible] beings after the manner of [illegible] But [illegible] most singular feature of the [illegible] the members of the Methodist [illegible] than any other single class [illegible] sentiments and to bring on the existing rebellion In this way it was [illegible] efforts of the day and [illegible] in the District of Columbia

Rothschild —It was recently proposed to Baron Rothschild that he should purchase Palestine, and set up an independent kingdom there "No," said he "I'd rather be Jew of the Kings than King of the Jews"

The Sanitary Commission in Tennessee.

A correspondent of the Bulletin writes an interesting letter from Nashville, in which he gives a detailed statement of the operations of the branch of the Commission located there and radiating thence to the different establishments under its charge He describes the Store House

"A huge stone structure about 100 feet in length which was formerly used by a wholesale Dry Goods [illegible] On the [illegible] portion of the city by Buell, this building was seized by Government and assigned to the Commission and certainly its stone front deep [illegible] long tiers of shelves hatchways and general appliances are in keeping with [illegible] the dignity of the wholesale philanthropic establishment which [illegible] through the nation equal Wells Fargo & Co's ramification through California. All the sanitary supplies which go to the front pass through it and if [illegible] great hearted contributors in California could have beheld the long rows of barrels boxes and bales which stretched far down the different floors could have numbered the bottles cans and [illegible] thing upon the shelf could have seen the ever coming and going ambulances of the city and regimental hospitals drays [illegible] and army wagons [illegible] off [illegible] and could have realized that each package and article was relief, perhaps life to some one or more of the brave soldiers who bleed and suffer that the nation may live—these contributors would [illegible] have straightened up an inch or two and to feel several degrees more unconscious [illegible] having given any money—possibly they might have won not a bit but internally they would have thanked God for enabling them to aid the [illegible] so kindly and effectually by aiding the nation's heroes

Its daily distribution averages ten thousands pounds such a quantity of delicacies and necessities sent to the sick in hospitals or held from the central depot of one single department of an institution which has its agents and relief wherever the nation has its soldiers, is not a bad shipment, and the beauty of it all that element which gives to it something which is both touching and sublime, is that after the people have furnished themselves and their sons as soldiers after they have empowered government to provide for its armies as no other armies were ever before provided for after they have paid all the taxes levied and willingly yielded all the revenue asked, then these same people, in a merely incidental and matter of course way, create a Sanitary Commission send to it all the goods and gold it needs, and fully empower it to ship 10,000 pounds per day of comfort and luxury to the army of the Cumberland Every man has a right to be proud of such a people and such a government as well as of its army and Commission Every loyal citizen has a right to stand erect and thank God that he is an American, and every loyal Californian has a right to stand on his tiptoes and thank God twice

There are thirty hospitals in Nashville and as the wounded and sick are sent to them from the front as rapidly as they are able to bear transportation, no inconsiderable work of the Commission consists in furnishing them with supplies

One of its agents acts as Hospital Visitor, and is constantly employed, both early and late as emergencies arise in making the unending round of the different wards, talking with the patients searching out cases requiring special nursing or relief inspecting the food and attention given to the sick, supplying them with sanitary stores attending to their epistolary and telegraphic wants, and for a noble hearted Christian as he is speaking to them of the love of that Saviour before whose face so many of them, day after day appear You can readily imagine that his position is neither an idle nor an easy one [illegible] spectacles of cheer rendered lives saved, death [illegible] and gratitudes experienced through his [illegible] Here is only the lifeless skeleton of an incident, which as narrated by him in the course of our walk was muscular with eloquence, and strode straight through my heart and out of my eyes

Away up in the fourth story of Hospital No 3 and in a far corner of the ward, he one day noticed an old lady sitting by the side of a mere lad who was reduced to the verge of death by chronic diarrhea She was to judge from appearances, a plain, honest hearted farmer's wife, who had likely never before traveled beyond the limits of her neighborhood, but now had come to do what might be done for her only son. In the course of a conversation she informed him that if she only could procure something that tasted like home—for instance some tea, which she could make herself and which would be better than that of the hospital—she thought it might save her boy's life Of course it was sent and on a subsequent visit she expressed her hearty thanks in a simple, hearty way quite in keeping with her whole appearance Still she was unaccountably sad Something was on her mind that evidently troubled her and like Banquo's ghost 'would not down' At length it came out in a confiding, innocent way—more evidently, because it was uppermost in her thoughts than for the purpose of receiving sympathy—that her means were about exhausted

I didn't think, said she, "it would take so much money it is so much further away from home than I had expected, and board here is so very high that I have hardly enough left to take me back, and, by another week, I will have to leave him I have been around to the stores to purchase some little things that he would eat, for he can't eat this strong food, but the prices are so high that I can't afford to buy them. And I am afraid that if I go away, and if he doesn't get something different to eat, that, may be"—and the tears trickled down her cheeks—"he won't——be well"

Mr Ingraham who is an Episcopal minister of the loyal warm hearted kind thought that difficulty might be overcome and if she would put on her bonnet, they would go to a store where articles were cheap

Proceeding to the Commission's depot, he ordered a supply of sugar, tea, soft crackers and canned fruit, then chicken and oysters, then jelly and wine brandy milk and underclothing—until the basket was full As the earlier articles nestled under its lids her face was glowing with satisfaction, but as the latter lots arrived she would draw him aside to whisper that it was too much, 'really, she had not money enough and when the more expensive items came from the shelves, the shadow of earnestness which gloomed her countenance grew into one of perplexity—her soul vibrating between motherly yearning for the lad on his couch and the scant purse in her pocket—until, slowly and with great reluctance, she began to return the costliest.

Hadn't you better ask the price?" said her guide

How much is it, sir?"

"Nothing, Madam," said the storekeeper

Sir?" queried she, in the utmost amazement, "nothing for all this?"

'My good woman" interrupted the guide, "have you a Soldiers Aid Society in your neighborhood?"

Yes, they had she belonged to it herself

'Well what do you suppose becomes of the garments you make and fruits you put up?"

She hadn't thought

She supposed they went to the army but was evidently bothered to know what connection there could be between their Aid Society and that basket

"These garments that you see came from your Society and other Societies just like yours so did your boxes and barrels That milk came from New York these fruits from Boston that wine was likely purchased with gold from California—and it is all for sick soldiers your son as much as any one

[illegible] This is the United States Sanitary Commission's store house You must come here whenever you wish and call for anything you want and you must stay with your son until he is able to go home Never mind the money's giving out you shall have more, which when you get back you can refund for the next other sons, and other mothers When you are ready to go I will put him in a berth where he can lie down and you shall save his life yet"

She did—God bless her innocent motherly heart—when nothing but motherly care could have achieved it When last seen on a dismal drizzly morning, she was with her face beaming forth the radiance of hope making a cup of tea over the stove of a car [illegible] for the convalescent who was snugly tucked away in the cabin berth waiting the final [illegible] of the locomotive that would speed them both homeward

The Soldiers' home, and the Hospital Directory are particularly described, and the following illustrative incidents mentioned

A poor woman from Wisconsin whose husband and son were in the ranks learning that the latter was wounded on Lookout Mountain made her way to Louisville whence she was sent by the Commission's agents there to Nashville It was absolutely impossible to get her further front even supposing her able to endure the three days trip and able to accomplish anything when there Accordingly the name and regiment of the person in question were telegraphed to Dr Reed at Chattanooga, and on the next day [illegible] was reported that her [illegible] had been severely wounded and placed in a hospital which was subsequently captured by the enemy in whose hands he then was [illegible] than [illegible] The [illegible] communicated [illegible] as gently and kindly as possible [illegible] Several times on Friday she came in to hear more There was nothing to hear—[illegible] pre[illegible] Saturday—nothing Sunday—nothing The suspense became terrible Was he dead? Were his wounds attended to? Was he [illegible] She prayed for some tidings—even the worst—rather than the agony of suspense Late Sunday night came a message—"Dead" Stewart [illegible] The stroke was terrible and the writhings of her soul awful to witness, much more to endure Monday morning she returned to the office [illegible] in heart but calmer than on the previous evening and said pointing to the flag over the door, with tears in her eyes "That flag is doubly dear to me this morning it has cost me something" Her means were exhausted and the Commission defrayed her expenses home Were not those few dollars spent upon such a mother wife martyr and patriot, well expended, Californians?

All information is gratuitously given The commission's dispatches go free over all Atlantic telegraph wire

A stout farmer named Greene from Danvers Mass with whom I recently [illegible] Louisville spoke as follows which will give you an idea of the trip to the front

I received a dispatch that my son a lieutenant in the 2d Mass [illegible] was killed at [illegible] Oct [illegible] 29th I went to bury his body where my [illegible] and his father [illegible] and went [illegible] Andrews to get his influence [illegible] [illegible] at work [illegible] Sanitary Commission [illegible] all the [illegible] a gentleman gave me a letter to Dr Newberry at Louisville If it hadn't been [illegible] I never could have got [illegible] Government [illegible] I had no other power to get them He [illegible] and gave me letters to Dr Reed at Nashville [illegible] orders there were that no citizens should go to the front but I told the Sanitary gentlemen my story and it was arranged somehow I left here early of a morning and it was after dark when we got to Stevenson It was raining and I was very cold and hungry but I found a Sanitary Commission tent where they gave me something to eat, a blanket and a place by the fire to sleep

Next day I got to Bridgeport There are no houses there but I found another Sanitary Commission tent and they treated me just as they have all the long way like a brother There was a little boat going up to Kelly's Ford but they wouldn't let me on they said nothing but freight could go on that boat I was determined to go and as I went to the Provost Marshal's tent There was a crowd [illegible] and as I waited my turn the tent opened a little I always like to see the man that I have to deal with before I get to him and so I thrust my head over to get a look at the Provost Marshal He caught my eye and came out Why Mr Green says he is this you? Why Mr Boyd says I, is this you? He was a neighbor of mine and lived within a hundred rods of me Why Mr Green, says he, what ever brought you out here? The business of the Sanitary Commission says I, for I met the [illegible] for but I don't know what power will get me further He took me into the tent and gave me passes and letters and put me on the little boat and I got to Kelly's Ford There was another Sanitary Commission tent, and the gentlemen got me out to an ambulance which took me to Chattanooga There I found the body of my son by the help of the Commission, and saw the place where he was killed It was a steep [illegible] when he was shot—he was hit in the breast—he rolled down several rods and lodged against a tree They found pictures of his mother and me in his pocket and our addresses

"At last I started back and got to Kelly's Ford where I slept in the Sanitary Commission tent, and the next night got to Bridgeport I sat there all night on the bank, for I couldn't leave my box alone unwatched In the morning the Sanitary Commission fed us They fed 210 the day before—strangers with money, but nobody to sell anything and if it hadn't been for them they couldn't have got anything to eat for three days, now are along the whole road I saw 20 persons eating out of one big pan and oh but they were glad Of course they can't have tables and lodgings in such a place as that [illegible] at least were or I [illegible] back and [illegible] at these [illegible] places

And so I got to Nashville and I am now here I never could have got down if it hadn't been for the Sanitary Commission The gentleman at Nashville could testify to [illegible] when I went down I feel sad enough yet—for he was always a good boy and my only son But now I feel so grateful for the help and kindness of the Commission that it swallows the other up"

I last saw him in Louisville riding away in an express wagon that contained a long white box A sword and haversack were in his hands

There are many other things of interest A plan for hospital cars was devised by the San Com and one or two cars built under its direction Since then Government has ordered several others, and since then regular hospital trains are run having suitable berths and accommodations An agent of the commission accompanies each train with supplies and personally attends to the wants of the sufferers. Any supplies which the Christian Commission desires to forward (and they are not very few) are taken for them by the Sanitary Commission As a general rule the Christian Commission delivers its supplies into the hands of the Sanitary Commission while the latter delivers to the former all the reading matter it can use There is work enough for both but in different departments The spiritual necessities of the army alone demand far more laborers than the Christian Commission will ever have in the field while the transportation and distribution of supplies is a tremendous work Many ministers are Sanitary men, and they as well as every agent, do all in their power to pour the oil of consolation into the wounded hearts which they so constantly meet But their special province is to relieve physical suffering—which certainly is christian

Henry Clay on the Irrepressible Conflict —The small dogs of slavery at the North have howled a great deal over Mr Seward's declaration of the "irrepressible conflict" between liberty and slavery in this country The idea is as old as the National Government and Mr Seward merely expressed it in an earnest and effective manner Henry Clay, in his younger days, was quite familiar with the idea, and in 1827, in a speech before the Colonization Society, described this conflict in the following eloquent passage, which we commend to the study of those who have been grieved by Seward's presentation of the same fact

We are reproached with doing mischief by the agitation of this question It is not this society which has produced the great moral revolution which the age exhibits What would they, who thus reproach us have done If they would repress all tendencies towards liberty and ultimate emancipation they must do more than put down the benevolent efforts of this society—they must go back to the era of our liberty and independence and muzzle the cannon which thunders its annual joyous return They must revive the slave trade with all its train of atrocities they must suppress the workings of British philanthropy seeking to meliorate the condition of the unfortunate West India slaves they must arrest the career of South American deliverance from thraldom they must blow out the moral lights around us and extinguish that greatest torch of all which America presents to a benighted world pointing the way to their rights their liberties and their happiness And when they have achieved all these purposes their work will yet be incomplete They must penetrate the human soul and eradicate the light of reason and the love of liberty Then and not till then when universal darkness and despair prevail, can you perpetuate slavery and repress all sympathies and all humane and benevolent efforts among freemen in behalf of the unhappy portion of our race who are doomed to bondage

A Great Newspaper —The London Times office employs three hundred persons every branch and department being managed with the most systematic precision and despatch The paper has now a daily circulation of sixty five thousand copies requiring eleven tons of paper per day The paper is [illegible] The large cylinder press made by [illegible] New York on which the paper is printed, turns out eight papers every second and a half or, allowing for stoppages about twelve thousand five hundred per hour—equal to one thousand every four minutes After the types are [illegible] stereotype copies are made [illegible] in order to supply forms from which [illegible] sufficient issue for the day No papers are sent [illegible] directly from the office—they [illegible] supplied by the newsmen

The price at retail in England is eight cents per copy, or twenty five dollars per year. Here it cost upward of thirty dollars a year This journal represents the mercantile and manufacturing interests—not the nobility—and may be said to echo the public—money [illegible]—sentiment of Great Britain

Yankees and the Chivalry —The Nashville Daily Journal noticing the changes which have occurred and which are likely to occur in the South as the result of the rebellion, says

We are of [illegible] towns [illegible] in which we shall be a homogeneous Yankee Nation —In another year or so there will be between the Lakes and the Gulf a people whose character [illegible] feelings and interests [illegible] that there will remain only the Yankee

When we say Yankee we don't mean the long legged [illegible] which exists only on the stage an [illegible] but a strong earnest people [illegible] irresistible

It is the [illegible] Yankee element whose beneficence [illegible] Swamp Angels are now [illegible] Charleston and whose energy [illegible] within the last two years have nearly accomplished a task the like of which [illegible] never seen

And then when this Yankee influence shall have purified the land and made it blossom all over with the beauty of Free Schools Free Labor Free Speech and Free Government [illegible] [illegible] and the feeble aristocracy shrunk away into the mist of obscurity and be forgotten

Wife Murder and Suicide —A shocking and heartrending occurrence took place on Tuesday last at Centerville in which a woman was shot and dangerously if not mortally wounded and her husband [illegible] shot and killed [illegible] by his own hand It appears that the parties were Norwegians by the name of Smith, who came from Oro Fino where the husband had been mining with indifferent success, and on their arrival at Centerville being destitute of means the wife was employed to cook for a party of men engaged in the butchering business —the husband also boarding with the party After a time Smith became dissatisfied and desired his wife to remove with him to this place She refused to do so, alleging as a reason that they had nothing to live on when they should arrive in Bannock and as she had a good situation and a certainty in the way of making a living through the winter where they were, she preferred to remain Smith left and came here where he remained some two months when he returned on Tuesday morning last, and demanded that she should accompany him to Bannock this she refused to do when he drew a revolver and fired three shots at her and turned the pistol and fired a shot through his own heart Only one shot took effect on the woman and that is supposed to have been the last one, as it hit her in the small of the back, and he had turned after the first fire and was endeavoring to escape through a door, when the first shot was fired at her It has been supposed that jealousy was the cause of the rash act—others ascribe it to insanity Smith is said to have been a sober, industrious man and must have been insane from whatever cause produced for certainly no sane man would have resorted to means so desperate to avenge a wrong, however heinous —Boise News.

The Cincinnati Commercial publishes a letter from a well known citizen of Georgia, who recently left that State and is now within our lines in which the writer says

I cannot leave this question without reference to Alexander H Stephens If he had been permitted to go to Washington the world would have felt his mission He is Vice President of the Southern Confederacy It is true but at this moment he is a Union man I was born and raised within children miles of him, and no man knows him better than I do [illegible] together for the Union but when Toombs and the Cobbs clique [illegible] the Union he felt that it was his duty to play a part That part will only be known [illegible] to go upon the dial of Ahaz But still Stephens is a Union man at a Christian

MOTHERS WHO VALUE THE LIFE OF THEIR CHILDREN should always keep DOCTOR WILLIAM HALL'S BALSAM on hand, which if given every few minutes, in the first stages of this disease will GIVE ALMOST IMMEDIATE RELIEF and reduce the inflammation, and cause the child to throw off the mucus which causes suffocation

HOW MANY A MOTHER has waked up at MIDNIGHT AND FOUND HER CHILD BREATHING HARD, ATTENDED WITH PECULIAR WHISTLING COUGH, which would be relieved by the use of DR WM HALL'S BALSAM, and repay a thousand times the cost, by having it once in time of need, to give relief to the struggling child!

WE THINK THERE IS no Medicine so efficacious in removing humors from the blood as SCOVILL'S BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP. It is recommended by Physicians in all parts of the country, for the cure of Scrofula, etc Pimples or sores indicate that the system is out of order Unless something is done to cleanse the blood of these impurities, the result may be in a more serious disease, such as Scrofula, Syphilitic, etc Those who wish to find a most efficacious remedy, and yet have no confidence in Patent Medicines generally, will never regret a trial of Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup

Recovery of Lost Treasure —Nearly two years ago, while Tracy & Co were running the Overland Express to Jacksonville, a package of coin worth $1,500, was mysteriously missing from their box All possible search was made without success, and it was long ago given up as wholly lost. Last week, however, Mr Conner, the Agent of the Express at Albany, discovered the missing package in his store, where it was accidentally left at the time the box was opened. It was supposed to be some article of hardware, and has laid about the store for months, waiting for an owner to claim it At the time of the [illegible] it was removed back and forth, but some [illegible] always preserved its value and identity until last week, when Mr. C. opened the bundle and very much to his surprise found the missing coin. A good thing for all parties concerned

The Embargo Removed —The steamer Julia arrived from the Cascades last evening, bringing sixty passengers and about three hundred pounds of treasure to Wells, Fargo & Co During the suspension of intercourse with the outside world, no paper has been published at the Dalles, and we are unable to learn any news of special importance in that direction It is stated that the trial of the persons charged with the murder of Mr Magruder was in progress at the latest dates from Lewiston. Reports by miners from Boise represent the weather there as mild, and work in the mines is scarcely interrupted by the cold. Many who have remained at the diggings have done as well as at any other season. The roads have generally been kept open, the snow even on the Blue Mountains being less than three feet deep

Trial Trip of the Senator.—Quite a large crowd assembled on the wharf at the end of Washington street, yesterday afternoon, to witness the departure of the Senator on her trial trip At about half past four o'clock her forward lines were cast off, but owing to a little difficulty with her wheel becoming entangled in the ropes of another craft lying near by, she swung out nearly heading down stream before she moved off, then taking a pretty curve she steamed up past the city, a perfect model to the eyes of those who saw her A number of invited guests were on board, and it is safe to say all enjoyed the trial trip.

For the Penitentiary.—Sheriff Olney of Wasco county, brought down a man by the name of Casey on the boat yesterday, sentenced to the penitentiary for one year for recently stealing a carpet-sack from a lady passenger on the Idaho.

Willamette Theatre.—We understand the Theatre will again open soon. Two popular pieces—"Rent Day" and "The Tutor" —are now in rehearsal.

In addition to the amount of treasure received by Wells, Fargo & Co., from the upper country last evening, we are assured there was an extra large amount in the hands of passengers.

The Youngest Soldier in the Army of the Cumberland —A late Cincinnati paper relates the following pleasant story of General Rosecrans

Last evening at the Caledonian supper Gen Rosecrans exhibited the photograph of a boy who he said was the youngest soldier in the army of the Cumberland His name is Johnny Clem, 12 years of age, a member of Co C, 22d Michigan infantry His home is at Newark, Ohio He first attracted the attention of Gen Rosecrans during the review at Nashville, where he was acting as marker for his regiment His extreme youth (he is quite small for his age) and intelligent appearance interested the General, and, calling him to him, he questioned him as to his name, age, regiment, etc. Gen Rosecrans spoke encouragingly to the young soldier, and told him to come and see him whenever he came where he was

He saw no more of the boy until Saturday last when he went to his place of residence—the Burnet House—and found Johnny Clem sitting on his sofa waiting to see him Johnny had experienced some of the vicissitudes of war since last they met. He had been captured by Wheeler's cavalry near Bridgeport His captors took him to Wheeler, who who saluted him with—"What are you doing here you d——d little Yankee scoundrel?"

Said Johnny Clem, stoutly—"Gen Wheeler. I am no more a d——d scoundrel than you are, sir"

Johnny said that the rebels stole about all he had, including his pocket-book, which contained only 25 cents "But I wouldn't have cared for the rest," he added, "If they hadn't stolen my hat, which had three bullet holes it received at Chickamauga"

He was finally paroled and send North. On Saturday he was on his way from Camp Chase to his regiment having been exchanged Gen Rosecrans observed that the young soldier had chevrons on his arm and asked the meaning of it He said he was promoted to a corporal for shooting a rebel colonel at Chickamauga The colonel was mounted and stopped Johnny at some point on the field crying "stop you little Yankee devil" Johnny halted, bringing his Austrian rifle to an 'order, thus throwing the Colonel off his guard, cocked his piece (which he could easily do, being so short) and suddenly bringing it to his shoulder fired, the Colonel falling dead with a bullet through his breast

The little fellow told his story simply and modestly and the General determined to honor his bravery He gave him the badge of the "Roll of Honor" which Mrs Saunders, wife of the host of the Burnet House sewed upon Johnny's coat His eyes glistened with pride as he looked upon the badge, and little Johnny seemed suddenly to have grown an inch or two taller he stood so erect He left his photograph with Gen Rosecrans, who exhibits it with pride We may again hear of Johnny Clem the youngest soldier in the Army of the Cumberland

Of Interest to Ladies —The fashion of having embroidery on cloaks, ladies' dresses and, in fact, garments of almost every description is rapidly on the increase in this country—imported as are other fashions, from Paris Fortunately for the ladies, the crisis has not caught them unprepared, and left them with no other means of ornamenting their articles of dress but the tedious and tiresome one by hand There is at least one of our popular sewing machines (Grover & Baker's) which is adapted to both sewing and embroidery and braiding Ladies can examine the ornamental and beautiful work of these machines and receive instructions in the same by calling at the Agency

Imperial Generosity —The Empress Eugenie has been signalizing herself by an act of kindness in behalf of the soldiers who were on board a transport bound for Mexico. There were eleven hundred on board and their ... condition ... were ... that the vessel ... Martinique with foul weather ... at Cadiz and the Empress arriving there at the time determined to go on board. Her Majesty was perfectly horror struck at what she saw there. The men in the gun deck especially were packed so close and appeared so demoralized by their voyage —in fact the whole scene brought all the national horrors of the 'middle passage' so vividly before Her Majesty that she immediately gave orders that the captain should have half of the men landed. The captain objected that he was unfortunately under the orders of the Ministry of Marine and could do nothing. The Empress thereupon sent a telegram to the Emperor relating what she had seen—the telegram beginning—'See how they treat your soldiers worse than negroes'—and asking another vessel to be sent to take one half of the men on board as the Sainte was a great deal too small to carry so large a number. In pursuance of this kindly invitation the Dryade was sent out to Cadiz in order to take on board the men the Sainte was unable to accommodate properly. In addition to this the Empress gave the officers in command of the troops 5000 francs with orders that it should be expended in giving them at least one good dinner before they sailed. One may imagine with what cheers Her Majesty was greeted on leaving the vessel to return on board her yacht

Salt Lake Express Attacked by Indians —The reason of the non-arrival of the Salt Lake Express last week was that when some distance this side of Salmon Falls the rider stopped ma... camp and was proceeding to ... supper went to a brook for some water dipped up some water turned round to go to camp when he saw two Indians on his two horses going at a rapid speed in the opposite direction from where he stood There being nothing left for him but to take it afoot he shouldered the express and started back for the falls having proceeded about four miles his load became rather burdensome and he cached it and made his way to the station that night when, having been much fatigued he sent another man with instructions where to find the hidden express who was to bring it to this city Arriving at the locality where he expected to find it he failed to discover its whereabouts and came on without it —Boise News

How Jerome Chanfour became a Volunteer.

"You are a soldier then?"

"I served in the Third Artillery under the Republic, and afterwards in the Guard through all the commotions. I was at Jemappes and Waterloo, so I was at the christening and the burial of our glory, as one may say."

I looked at him with astonishment.

"And how old were you at Jemappes?"

"Somewhere about fifteen," said he.

"How came you to think of being a soldier so early?"

"I did not really think about it. I then worked at toy making, and never dreamt that France could ask me for anything else than to make her draught boards, shuttle cocks and cups and balls. But I had an old uncle at Vincennes whom I went to see from time to time—a Fontenoy veteran in the same rank of life as myself, but with ability enough to have risen to that of a marshal. Unluckily in those days there was no way for common people to get on. My uncle, whose services would have got him made a prince under the other, had then retired with the mere rank of sub lieutenant. But you should have seen him in his uniform, his cross of St Louis, his wooden leg, his white mustache, and his noble countenance. You would have said he was a portrait of one of those old heroes in powdered hair which are at the Versailles!

"Every time I visited him, he said something which remained fixed in my memory. But one day I found him quite grave.

"'Jerome,' said he, 'do you know what is going on on the frontier?'

"'No, lieutenant,' replied I.

"'Well,' resumed he, 'our country is in danger.'

"I did not well understand him, and yet it seemed something to me.

"'Perhaps you have never thought what your country means,' continued he, placing his hand on my shoulder, 'it is all that surrounds you, all that has brought you up and fed you, all that you have loved! This country that you see, these houses, these trees, those girls who go along there laughing—this is your country! the laws which protect you, the bread which pays for your work, the words you interchange with others, the joy and grief which come to you from the men and things among which you live—this is your country! The little room where you used to see your mother, the remembrance she has left you, the earth where she rests—this is your country! You see it, you breathe it, everywhere! Think to yourself, my son, of your rights and your duties, your affections and your wants, your past and your present blessings—write them all under a single name—and that name will be your country!'

"I was trembling with emotion, and great tears were in my eyes.

"'Ah, I understand,' cried I, 'it is our home in large, it is that part of the world where God has placed our body and our soul.'

"'You are right, Jerome,' concluded the old soldier, 'so you comprehend also what we owe it?'

"'Truly,' resumed I, 'we owe it all that we are, it is a question of love.'

"'And of honesty, my son,' continued he, 'the member of a family who does not contribute his share of work and of happiness fails in his duty, and is a bad kinsman; the member of a partnership who does not enrich it with all his heart, defrauds it of what belongs to it, and is a dishonest man; it is the same with him who enjoys the advantages of having a country, and does not accept the burdens of it, he forfeits his honor, and is a bad citizen!'

"'And what must one do, lieutenant, to be a good citizen?'

"'Do for your country what you would do for your father and mother,' said he.

"I did not answer at the moment, my heart was swelling, and the blood boiling in my veins, but, on returning along the road my uncle's words were, so to speak, written up before my eyes. I repeated, 'Do for your country what you would do for your father and mother.' And my country is in danger, an enemy attacks it, whilst I, I turn cups and balls!

"This thought tormented me so much all night that the next day I returned to Vincennes to announce to the lieutenant that I had just enlisted, and was going off to the frontiers. The brave man pressed me upon his cross of St Louis, and I went away as proud as an embassador.

"That is how, neighbor, I became a volunteer under the Republic before I had cut my wise teeth."—Attic Philosopher, by Emile Souvestre.

Common Sense as Applied to Sunshine and Ventilation.—The Atlantic Monthly had an able article on "The Lungs, and how to make them strong," a couple of months ago, commenting on which the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post displays the following true common sense in showing that while Dr Dio Lewis is right in some particulars he goes too far in others.

Dr Dio Lewis, who recently delivered a lecture in this city, appears to be disposed to run the usual course of New England reformers. His peculiar hobbies are Ventilation, Sunshine and Light Gymnastics, and if he would only ride these in moderation he might do all good and no harm in his career. But in his energetic pursuit of fresh air, he appears to forget altogether the dangers of cold drafts and noxious vapors; in his worship of the sun, he would cut down all our shade trees and tear away all our window blinds, and in his advocacy of the Light Gymnastics would ignore all the benefit that thousands have received from the usual round of gymnastic exercises.

Now, that pure air is a good thing very few know better than ourselves. For many years we have had our attention attracted to the subject, and have experimented considerably upon it. But our conclusions are by no means those of Dr Dio Lewis. We have not the least doubt that it is often better to endure impure air—that of a rail car, for instance—than to throw up the window on a cold raw day and expose yourself to the danger of taking a cold from which you might never fully recover. Of course, where you can have pure air without the danger of taking cold, you would be foolish not to have it; but the dangers which are apt to result from a half hour's breathing of impure air, for instance, are as nothing compared to the dangers which may ensue from the blowing of a draft of cold air upon your neck, breast or back, for the same period of time.

Sleeping in a room with "the windows opened near the bed," as Dr Lewis recommends, would be a very dangerous experiment indeed for many people. We know a gentleman possessing an unusually well developed chest, who once threw himself down upon the parlor sofa. Unknown to him the window sash was open behind the blinds, the sofa being foolishly placed under the window. He fell asleep—the wind changed during his sleep, and blew in, cold and damp upon him. The consequence was, that though one of the last men to fear consumption, his lungs were so affected that he had to leave his business, and devote years to the single object of regaining his health. And this was in the day time, not the night.

Now when we consider how liable the climate of this country is to change—how we may go to bed scarcely able to bear a sheet upon us, and waken up to find a temperature like that of the mountain tops—to advise people and even those who are delicate to go to sleep with the wind blowing freely upon them, seems to us just a little short of madness.

The true plan of ventilating bedrooms is to ventilate them in such a manner that drafts will be, as far as possible, avoided. For ourselves we have never found any better plan than the open fireplace and chimney flue, with an additional opening made into the flue near the ceiling of the room. If this does not afford sufficient fresh air, close your outside venetian shutters and then open your window, thus breaking the draft of air against the fully or partially closed slats of the shutter. If you have no venetian shutters, interpose something to break the draft of the air—and if you are a sound sleeper, open your window only so far as is absolutely necessary for the ventilation of the room, bearing in mind the probabilities of a change of weather. Remember that you may die of an overdose of even Pure Air alone about as certainly, if not as easily, as from an overdose of Pure Water. And remember further, that the Night Air, especially in certain districts and at certain periods of the year, in spite of all that Dr Lewis says, is more impure and dangerous than the tempered atmosphere of the house. For it would appear that even in the process of passing into a house through narrow openings an impure and moist air parts with no small degree of its dangerous qualities—somewhat as it does in passing through a curtain.

A Bit of Scandal.—The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Press says the Russian officers were astonished at the number of well dressed females, 'representatives of wealth and blood,' who swarmed the decks during the stay of the fleet in New York, begging everything which might serve as souvenirs from their gallant hosts. Snuff boxes, cigar cases, charms and baubles—some of them of great value, and the gifts of friends or relatives at home—were asked for in a manner that would admit of no refusal whatever. Many articles purchased by the officers during their trip to Niagara were thus confiscated by the wholesale; and in one instance a ship of the squadron was thoroughly stripped of every silver coin (Russian) by these same vulgar curiosity hunters.

Temporal Blessings.—Wish for them cautiously—ask for them submissively—want them contentedly—obtain them honestly—accept them humbly—manage them prudently—employ them lawfully—impart them liberally—esteem them moderately—increase them virtuously—use them subserviently—forget them easily—resign them willingly.

A Sad Loss.—An old lady was telling her grandchildren about some trouble in Scotland, in the course of which the chief of her clan was beheaded. "It was nae great thing of a head, to be sure," said the good lady, "but it was a sad loss to him."

A Young Lady's Sentiments.—If it was not good for Adam to live single when there was not a woman on earth, how very criminally guilty are old bachelors, with the world full of pretty girls!

Confederate money is depreciated so that the Richmond papers say "If you go to market you have to take your money in a basket, and carry your beef in the pocket book."

The Best Sphere.—The most desirable position for an educated woman—to be the loving wife of one husband and the careful and tender mother of many children.

AYER'S
Catharctic Pills,
(SUGAR COATED,)
ARE MADE TO
CLEANSE THE BLOOD AND CURE THE SICK
Invalids, Fathers, Mothers, Physicians, Philanthropists, read their Effects, and judge of their Virtues.
Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.
PITTSBURG, PA., May 1 1856.
DR J. C. AYER. Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once. If they will cure others as they do me, the fact is worth knowing. Yours with great respect,
ED. W. PREBLE, Clerk of Steamer Clarion.
Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints.
DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 1[illegible]
SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours,
ALONZO BALL, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.
Dysentery, Relax, and Worms.
POST OFFICE, HARTLAND, LIV. CO., MICH., Nov. 15, 1856.
DR. AYER: Your Pills are the perfection of medicine. They have done my wife more good than I can tell you. She had been sick and pining away for months. Went off to be doctored at great expense, but got no better. She then commenced taking your Pills, which soon cured her, by expelling large quantities of worms (dead) from her body. They afterwards cured her and our two children of bloody dysentery. One of our neighbors had it bad, and my wife cured him with two doses of your Pills, while others around us paid from five to twenty dollars doctors' bills, and lost much time, without being cured entirely even then. Such a medicine as yours, which is actually good and honest, will be prized here. GEO. J. GRIFFIN, Postmaster.
Indigestion and Impurity of the Blood.
From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.
DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.
WARSAW, WYOMING CO., N. Y., Oct 24, 1855.
DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.
JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.
Erysipelas, Scrofula, King's Evil, Tetter, Tumors, and Salt Rheum.
From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1856.
DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulcerous sores upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.
ASA MORGRIDGE.
Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and Gout.
From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.
PULASKI HOUSE, SAVANNAH, GA., Jan. 6 1856.
HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them I am now entirely well.
SENATE CHAMBER, BATON ROUGE, LA., 5 Dec., 1855.
DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured by your Pills of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years.
VINCENT SLIDELL.
For Dropsy, Plethora, or kindred Complaints, requiring an active purge, they are an excellent remedy.
For Costiveness or Constipation, and as a Dinner Pill, they are agreeable and effectual.
Fits, Suppression, Paralysis, Inflammation, and even Deafness, and Partial Blindness, have been cured by the alterative action of these Pills.
Most of the pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skillful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF
and for the relief of consumptive patients in advanced stages of the disease.
We need not speak to the public of its virtues. Throughout every town and almost every hamlet of the American States, its wonderful cures of pulmonary complaints have made it already known. Nay, few are the families in any civilized country on this continent without some personal experience of its effects, and fewer yet the communities any where which have not among them some living trophy of its victory over the subtle and dangerous diseases of the throat and lungs. While it is the most powerful antidote yet known to man for the formidable and dangerous diseases of the pulmonary organs, it is also the pleasantest and safest remedy that can be employed for infants and young persons. Parents should have it in store against the insidious enemy that steals upon them unprepared. We have abundant grounds to believe the CHERRY PECTORAL saves more lives by the consumptions it prevents than those it cures. Keep it by you, and cure your colds while they are curable, nor neglect them until no human skill can master the inexorable canker that, fastened on the vitals, eats your life away. All know the dreadful fatality of lung disorders, and as they know too the virtues of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them it is still made the best it can be. We spare no cost, no care, no toil to produce it the most perfect possible, and thus afford those who rely on it the best agent which our skill can furnish for their cure.
